TO SHIP MASTERS. TO SHIP MASTERS.
OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF UNDERWRITERS.
There is reason to believe that disneters to vessels have recently occurred on the Southern coast of the United States in consequence of the use of OLD and INCORRECT CHARTS. This Board would earneafly impress upon Ship Masters the great importance of being provided with those that are of RECENT DATE and from a RELIABLE SOURCE. Blunt's Charts of the Coast of the United States are corrected in conformity with the Government Surveys, and have accurately laid down the position of all the Lights now in use or in process of construction on our coast, and these Charts should be familiar to every Ship Master in the trade.

CAUTION.-LIVINGSTONE'S TRAVELS IN CAUTION.—LIVINGSTONE'S TRAVELS IN AFRICA.—The attention of Mesers. HARPER a BROTH-ERS has been called to several sputious Works put forth as the "NARRATIVE OF DR. LIVINGSTONE'S TRAVELS IN AFRICA." One of these is a gross forgery throughout. It does not contain a single line written or furnished by Dr. Livingstone, bears no resemblance whatever to his genuine Narrative, but is altogether the invention of the fabricator. Another book professes to give, "in the language of Dr. Livingstone," a "complete second of his various journeys, omitting only incidental details and acientific matter. These "incidental details "which are omitted form more than one-half of the matter in the genuine edition, embracing the most valuable part of the book, nearly all of the characteristic Illustrations, and the elaborate Maps, which are essential to a full understanding of the explorations and travels of the author. The place of the genuine Illustrations has been supplied by coarse econd-hand cuts, bearing no relation whatever to Dr. Livingstone's Book. This mutitated edition is designed mainly for circulation through the "Gilt-books" selame of the publisher, although it is understood that reputable members of the Trade have purchased it, supposing it to be a genuine, cummtilated edition.

Meser, HARPER & BROTHERS respectfully caution the publisher, attoring at it is be a genuine, unmutilisted edition.

Mesers. HARPER & BROTHERS respectfully caution the Trade and the public against being imposed upon by these forged and mutilated Works.

The only genuine unmutelated American edition of Dr. Living stone's Work is that published by Mesers. HARPER & BROTHERS, printed from an early copy purchased for a large sum from the author. It contains 70 pages, large octave, with a Fortrait of the Author engraved upon steel; two elaborate Steel-plate Maps, with Livingstone's Routes colored, and forty-five large Woodcuts, engraved in the highest style of the art. The volume is besutifully printed and substantially bound. Price Three dollars.

MAGGIE. THE CHILD OF CHARITY;

WAIFS ON THE SEA OF HUMANITY.

The story opens with a Winter morning scene in the great City of New-York. The first characters introduced are Mr. Seymour, a rich man, and a-poor boy who is analous to earn a trifle by shoveling the snow off the sidewalk in front of the rich man's mansion. Mr. Seymour at first sends the boy away penntiess, but he scon regrets his hasty action, and meeting the boy again an analyst of the rich was the matter at the scene of the rich was the matter than the scon regrets his fasty action, and meeting the boy again as Upon my life I believe the boy is getting crazy " exclaimed dead—I wouldn't care which."

Mr. Seymour was about to make some consiliatory reply, but before he could do so the door opened, and a little girlabout nine years of age entered, hearing in her hands a bowl of soop. She was a beautiful, bright-looking child, although her clothes were untilly and her hair was unrounded, and fed straggling ground her face. Her large blue eyes water full of geutheness and how, and an almost angelic look rested upon her meck, retiring counterrance.

an almost angene look. The same and a superfixed and a whileper, while a smile of joy lighted up her little thin face:

"Here, Charley, I've brought a bowt of real nice soup for your mother, and I knew it'll do her good. Mrs. Maddax, who lives not hungry, and it will be so nice for your poor mother."

The boy's lip quivered as he stroggled to whole; but I'm not hungry, and it will be so nice for your poor mother.

The boy's lip quivered as he stroggled to whole some terrible emotion, and he answered, at last, in a husky voice:

"She don't want it, Maggie—I know the don't—you wat it your-self."

and scattle reprosed:

No, one, did you say, Charley! No one at all!

Instantly the boy shocked his violent grief, and looking up brough his tears, he replied, as he affectionately pressed her

Instabily the boy checked his violent girel, and counting of through his tears, in replied, as he affectionately present ber said:

Oh, I forgot you, Maggle—I forcet you; but you mus no't blame me. I was thinking of nothing but her. It will be as very, erry mad to see them take her away?

By this time Mr. Seymour had recovered somewhat from the first shock which his feelings had sistained, and, approaching close to the corper, he began to permet the features atjectively. A thrild of horror shock he frame as he did so, for, notwithstanding the things which death had made, he felt morally certain he had seem the face before under far different circumstances.

What is your name, boy?" he asked, excitedly, turning toward the sorrowing lad.

The boy was stabborn, and would not answer, but his little compation replied:

"It hought so." groated the rich man, and then he mentally circumstanced out upon his forchead: "Can it be possible that the stroordinary ideas put forth by psychologies are true to the full extent of such recomings? Have I been drawn hither by some kind of mental alchemy—some subtle magnetic sympathy which existed between her mind and my own, before the breach had left her body?

Again he gared long and earnestly at the face of the dead woman, till at length satisfied beyond the possibility of a doubt that he had fully made out her identy, a groan of anguish, followed by a deep drawn sigh, burst from nim, as he exclaimed:

It is her, and we have met again at last, but under what terrible diremstances. On, what a frightful death for the doubt. He speke truly. It was a fightful death, for the woman had to die."

He sp. ke truly. It was a frightful death, for the woman had died of starvation! Starvation in the midst of plenty! Eager to appears the frightful cravings of hunger she had select the load and torn from it a monthful, but even as she easyed to maxificate it the fails reaction took place, death select her in the effort, and she who had once tasted the awests of affiliations now as there the victim of couls want, a stiffered corpse, grim, gaont and ghastly! Casting a look at the children, who, in their great grief, had not notice this spitation, the millioniar rushed from the house and took his way toward the Coroner's office.

The next chapter introduces two new characters, viz.: Chil. The next chapter introduces two per characteristics of in-dividuals by what they est, and Bridget Mullins, a kind-hearted Irish woman, who is strongly opposed to this philosophy, or, in fact, to philosophy of any kind. We quote:

was be, Charley, don! " asked the widow, addressing the deeased woman's son, after she had entirely recovered her equareased moman's sen, after she had entirely recovered her equanimity.

The poor boy, who, absorbed in his deep grief, sat in an out-ofthe way corner, did not hear her, and little Maggie once murabecame his mouth piece.

"Don't speak to him now, Mrs. Mullins, please don't," pleaded the little creature—"he leeks so had he don't want to taik. I know all about it, and I'll answer your questions. Mr. Seymour has offered to find a place for Charley—heard him."

"Well, he's the during initionan, anynow," said the widow—

"That man," broke in Phil Ferry, who had jeft his washing table for trees and again ventured to join the group, "that man lives on green turtle. I examined him carefully at the inqueet, and it could see thrite soup in his eye, intile freecase in his mouth, and turtle steake in his stomach. If he lives five years longer one shell will begin to spront from his shoulder blades, and another from his sternum, while his head will sink so far down into his cheet that sermum, while his head will sink so far down into his cheet that sermum, while his head will sink so far down into his cheet that sermum, while his head will sink so far down late has one of the cheet that the proof it will be visible. "Arrah, now!" interposed Mrs. Mullim, "bad manners to ye, "Arrah, now!" interposed Mrs. Mullim, "bad manners to ye, are ten thousand times worse nor a Frinchman's poil-perrou!" ye are ten thousand times worse nor a Frinchman's poil-perrou!"

The philosopher was about to reply, but his speech was out since the yellow his perd he philosopher, musingly, as soon as his eye iell upon the new comer. "I can see 'em silening out all over. Suppeys and tricky—twick himself into any shape he pleases and attority make his excapt through the sanciesa kind over. Every fair, on his head—to be star there isn't many of them—is an cell, and if an eel's eye was magnified to the size of his with a proper lens, I'll venture to say you couldn't tell one from the other!"

The individual concerning whom Phil Ferry thus sollion shed, looked sharply around at the group for a moment or two, without reaking, and then turning his gaze towards the window, he said!
